She shivers, cool mystery.

Her hand gropes for what she cannot yet find.

Eyes question, search.

She stumbles ahead to the place of her distant self.

*Climbing trees and giggling at the wrong time,
Still in pigtails and loving childhood toys,
She is reminded:
Tomorrow's woman was Yesterday's child.*

Adagio, a stillness of breathless trees, resting.

Allegro, spinning in Faust's prismsed world, restless.

Andante, focusing on a clear crisp sky, rested.

nice about butterflies,
yellow wool yarn,
a pink balloon lighting
on Bertrand Russell's Problems
in Philosophy, page
fifteen,
a pack of cigarettes
clutched in the hands of a sleeper whose sunburned
face is resting on Lawrence Ferlinghetti's Coney Island of the
